Market Research

Are you looking for how to launch a product in the Iranian market? Market research is crucial for retailers to understand their competitors and to target customers more effectively. It helps create better products and effective marketing strategies to stand out from competitors. Suppose you're launching a new product in the Iranian market. In that case, we can help with the following:

- Analysis of retail and wholesale prices
- Market volume, key customers, and expectations
- Map of target market players and analysis of strengths and weaknesses
- Expert interviews and questionnaires
- Analysis of communication channels and advertising activities of market participants

Advertising

If you're looking to launch a marketing campaign for your product in Iran, we can help. Our team can create a tailored solution based on your product and help you find the best approach to succeed in the Iranian market. Iran is a bit different in marketing as most gigantic global brands like Facebook and Google are nearly useless in Iran. We know how to advertise your products in the most efficient and effective ways possible. You can sit back and relax; we can handle your stress for advertising in a new environment.

The Founder

Born in the West, raised in the South, and working in the centre, all made me see the beauty of my country, and leaving it, made me appreciate it even more.

Living in different countries with diverse backgrounds in HR, sales, marketing, and driving tanks, I have been driven by curiosity. From studying management in one part of the world to pursuing human resources in another, I have consistently chased opportunities to learn new approaches to problem-solving.

My goal with AVAT is to help Iranian and European companies tackle their challenges by developing solutions that address their needs. I am excited to embark on this new journey and look forward to positively impacting the businesses we serve.

Contact me to raise your problem. There may be a way to solve it; if not, we will make a way.
